Re: United States v. Agron Hasbajrami
Criminal Docket No. 11-623 (S1)(JG)

Agron Hasbajrami v. United States
Civil Docket No. 13-6852 (JG)

Dear Judge Gleeson:

On December 31, 2013, the above-captioned defendant sought the Court's intervention to gain access to certain video recordings seized from his computer during the investigation underlying this case. On January 9, 2014, the Court ordered the government to inquire with officials from the Bureau of Prisons ("BOP") as to whether they could arrange such access, and report the results of the inquiry by January 23, 2014. On January 23, 2014, because the BOP was seeking, but had yet to finalize, a solution to accommodate the defendant, the Court permitted the government until February 6, 2014 to provide another update. By this letter, the government reports that the BOP has arranged to afford the defendant access to the video materials for two hours each week in the prison law library.

The government respectfully submits that the BOP's accommodation is reasonable and satisfies the defendant's request for access to his discovery materials. The BOP's solution also addresses the competing interests of the institution and the defendant concerning the materials. Should the Court have additional questions, the government will inquire with the defendant's correctional institution report back to the Court.

Respectfully submitted,

LORETTA E. LYNCH
United States Attorney
